Nineteen interesting "jobs" available at L'International des Feux Loto-Québec presented par TELUS

Montréal, Wednesday, March 17, 2010 – L'International des Feux Loto-Québec presented by TELUS is seeking 19 fireworks aficionados of all ages to fill strategic positions at the event throughout the duration of the 2010 edition. To be specific, the event is looking for judges to award prizes to the eight countries entered in the competition.

To "apply," candidates must – above all – be fans of fireworks and be available every Saturday evening from June 12 to August 14. Once they have been selected, the successful candidates will receive training to allow them to evaluate performances based on 5 criteria: pyrotechnic pieces, synchronization, soundtrack, technical design, and pyromusical concept. Though judges will not receive monetary compensation, they will certainly enjoy 10 magical evenings, along with VIP treatment.

Candidates interested in becoming a judge at L'International des Feux Loto-Québec presented by TELUS can submit their resume by May 9, 2010 on the event's web site at www.internationaldesfeuxlotoquebec.com. Candidates will be required to answer a few questions online and write a brief explanation outlining why they believe they would be a good judge. Only candidacies submitted online will be accepted. An e-mail will be sent to successful first-round candidates, who will then proceed to the next step in the selection process.
